ECLECTIC

Extra-terrestrial exploration has long since been of huge interest to all people. Mankind has, for some reason, always been captivated by the heavens and what lies beyond the limited reach of our vision – and thanks to the incredible technological growth, But what if we took it all a step further? The human race is ever growing, and it comes naturally to us to establish our territory on foreign lands. When all land is taken on Earth, what if it's finally time to take things up a notch and begin again on a new planet?

And so begins a mission like never before – a handful of experts are to be sent to another planet – not to explore and return, not to study and experiment, but to be the first human inhabitants on a foreign planet.

With such an extraordinary mission comes extraordinary needs, including nutrition, hygiene, housing and furnishing. It is here that you come into the play: you are being considered to be the designer of the furniture this team is to use during their stay in the hostile and foreign planet.

Your job is to prove your worth as the best candidate the world has to offer as you bear up to make a functional furniture unit.

This unit must include:

- Sleeping quarters
- Working and experimentation space
- Ample storage for books, clothes, tools, and other belongings
- Eating quarters
